Barbados has taken a significant step toward transforming its energy landscape with the launch of the Caribbean's first competitive Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) auction — a development that could redefine how renewable energy is integrated, financed, and scaled across island grids. This first tranche of the competitive procurement process aims to deploy 60 MW (240MWh) of new Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS) in Barbados, aiming to unlock renewable energy (RE) access to the grid, improve grid stability, allow better demand management, and mitigate supply interruptions. Barbados has taken a major step in its energy transition with the launch of a tender to award 60 MW of capacity and 240 MWh of storage through battery energy storage systems (BESS). The process has received backing from multilateral institutions and generated strong interest from the private. Barbados has launched the second phase of its Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) procurement process, a critical step in tackling ongoing grid congestion that has stalled the growth of the renewable energy sector.
